

Why I Will Remain a Lutheran Christian

Hi, my name is Chloe Rohrer and I've been at Epiphany for 10 years. I enjoy taxidermy, painting, and learning about animal behaviors. I wish to be a veterinarian and a wildlife rehabber in the future. I am not currently in any sports but I did competitive swimming for 3 years and I hope to be on the Concordia archery team. I play percussion and I'm great on the recorder.

I love the fact that Jesus died for me specifically, not for all of humanity, but for each individual person that ever was and ever will be. I also just love being in a community that shares my beliefs and experiences. I am very grateful that my parents brought me up in a community that I can rely on in hard times.

I love how the Lord's Supper reminds me of the sacrifice Jesus made for me. I also enjoy how it doesn't just remind me of Jesus' death, but that it also celebrates Jesus' eventual resurrection and his eternal love for me.

I will try to grow in faith by putting more trust in the Lord when I am worried, because God has my back. I will share the love that Jesus has for me to others who might need it. I'm going to try reading the Bible more often, especially when I am upset or stressed.

I'd like to thank my parents for bringing me to this wonderful place and raising me to love and respect the church. I'd like to thank my friends for always being there to make me laugh, I'd like to thank pastor for teaching me, I'd like to thank God for loving and caring for me even though I don't deserve it, and I'd like to thank y'all for listening to me talk for a couple minutes.
